GLAD GREETINGS FROM NEW ENGLAND

Exquisite Beauty in New England Originations

For true charm and color one naturally turns to the decorative types and usually those of medium size. New England growers have produced many beautiful, artistic and outstanding varieties. Prices today are very low. You will find much pleasure in growing any of the following, many of which are consistent prize winners at the great Boston Shows.

GLAD GREETINGS FROM NEW ENGLAND

LADY DAINTY

LADY DAINTY (Clark) (1929)

A primulinus Saundersii hybrid, having the long segments or petals and light lower segments of Saundersii. The incurved upper segment and yellow base are derived from the primulinus species. At the 1928 Exhibition of the New England Gladiolus Society this seedling, won the N. E. G. S. Silver Medal as best primulinus seedling, the A. G. S. Silver Medal as best seedling of all types and Award of Merit.

“LADY DAINTY, I would say, is the most beautiful Gladiolus as a cut flower that I have ever seen.”

—FRANKLIN B. MEADE.

PRINCESS GIOVANNA (Clark) (1930)

Pale red orange (R. O. 3), streaked lightly with pale and lighter orange red (O. R. 2 and 3). Open, 16 in all. Loose flowers. Four hooded, 3 inch florets. Petals somewhat curved. Lower 3 petals streaked with lighter yellow blotch (O. R. 1 on Y. 2).

PRINCESS IOLANDE (Clark) (1933)

Pale red orange, a little darker at tips (R. O. 3x4). Loose spike, about 3 flowers open at one time, 14 in all. 3 inch, hooded florets. Pale yellow blotch, extending into throat (Y. 3).

PRINCESS MARIA (Clark) (1933)

Pink. Very early. Wonderful propagator. Most satisfactory as a cut flower.

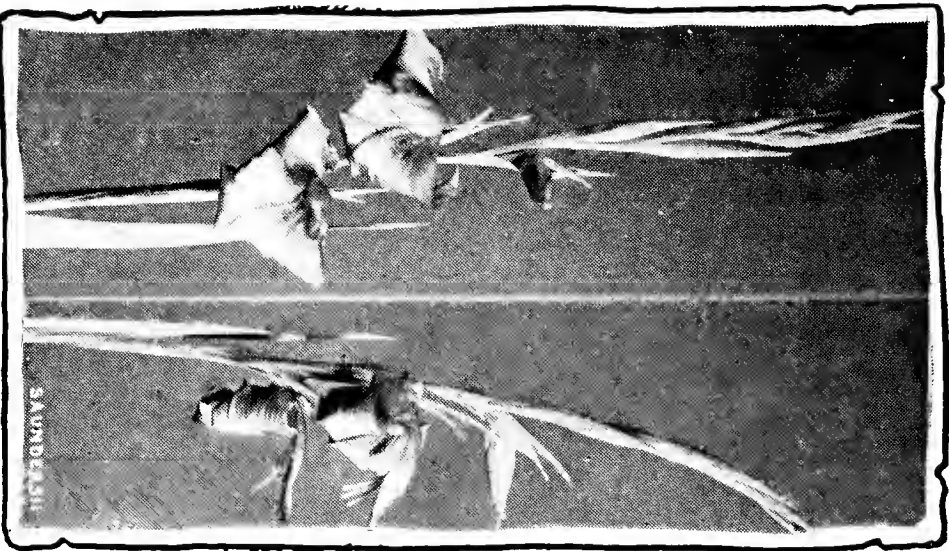

African Gladiolus Species

There are over 100 African Gladiolus Species. Psittacinus, meaning parrot’s head; Dracocephalus, dragon’s head; and Primulinus grow well in New England and are a source of delight in the garden and get much comment and many medals at Exhibitions.

AFRICAN SPECIES	Each	Dozen
PSITTACINUS, red and yellow, hooded.....	$.10	$1.00
DRACOCEPHALUS, green, veined purple.....	.06	.60
PRIMULINUS, primrose yellow, hooded.....	.06	.60
